

Katie Patterson-Ingels

Katie is the Communications Director for the Kansas Water Office, a position she has held since February 2011. Prior to her current position she was the Public Information Officer for the Kansas Department of Health and Environment and was the Holton/Jackson County Chamber of Commerce Director. Her responsibilities at KWO also include conference and event planning for the agency.

Katie grew up on a family farm in northern Jackson County. She and her husband have two kids, raise cattle and continue to help on her family's farm. She graduated from Kansas State University with a degree in Agriculture Communications/Journalism and a minor in Animal Science.